

Communication Cara and her Side Kick Chewy the Dog

Wow! Another case solved by Communication Cara and her trusty side kick Chewy who is a dog with the power of smell. They have just solved a case where two school kids were fighting. Communication Cara and Chewy looked like they had been together forever, but they only meet one year ago when Communication Cara found Chewy on the side of the road and took him home to love for ever, they are now inseparable.

They are flying over the city to see if there are any disagreement, but so far there was nothing but the bright sun. Then Chewy with his supersonic hearing heard something coming from bellow in a little town called Westburg, so they flew over to the town. There they saw a massive group of people fighting, everyone was shouting.

There were two main people fighting right in the middle. Chewy growled very loudly and everyone stopped and turned to them. Communication Cara asked what was going on, everyone started talking at once.

Once one person from each side had informed her of their side of the story, she realised that there was a big problem going on. A child called, John, who is in a wheelchair, was claiming that another Child called Alex said, "why are you in a wheelchair dummy". But Alex stated that he said, "I like the colours of your wheelchair funny". Chewy told Communication Cara that one of them was lying but he couldn't tell who.

Communication Cara said to John "maybe you heard it wrong, and Alex didn't say that", but John said, "no I didn't hear it wrong, he definitely said that". So, Communication Cara went to Alex and said, "maybe you were mad and accidently said that", but Alex said, "no I promise that I didn't say that I would never say that".

Communication Cara didn't know what to do so Chewy went over to both buys and sniffed them. Then Chewy said to John "what did Alex say to you at school that was mean?" John stated, "he said that I wasn't good at maths because I got 50% and he got 100%". Alex ran over and said, "sorry I was just joking around when I said that".

Then Chewy said "I know who is lying it is John." Chewy walked over to John and said, "Alex said I like the colours of your wheelchair funny." "But I heard it myself, also why would he say funny?" Said John. "I said funny because you are all ways making people laugh," said Alex.

"How did you know I was lying" said John in the wheelchair." "I knew because he said sorry for saying you were not good at maths, and you were still mad" said Chewy.

Then Chewy started talking again and said, "I knew one of you guys were lying but I didn't know who. Then when Cara asked those questions, your feelings started getting stronger and that's when I knew it was you lying. Then the boy in the wheelchair huffed and walked of. "What did I do wrong?" said Alex "You did nothing wrong he was just angry at you, now you should go home and get some rest" said Communication Cara.

Communication Cara told Chewy that he did awesome back there and that that she couldn't have done it without him. Chewy said thanks and found a comfy part on her shoulder and they flew back home in the silent evening.
