Compassion Candy loves his job he loves to make people happy. Once one of his friends came over for a sleepover. Compassion didn't know that he was scared of the dark. When it was time for sleep, compassion asked if he was ok. His friend said he was scared so candy put on a small light and told his friend everything was ok and gave his friend a sweet. In the morning they had pickle pancakes but his friend didn't like pickles so candy said mom can I and him want home pancakes please ok said his mom. then they hugged together. happy ever after.
