Sustainability Suki-Sustainable Summer

As Sustainability Suki went on a class expedition to other classrooms, she noticed how every piece of paper went to the landfill bin instead of the recycle bin as it suppose to be in. She also noticed that every single light was on, and some students were covering their eyes because of the brightness of the lights. In the tiny pond outside, there were rubbish students have left at break times and some birds were having trouble to swim in the dirty water. Suki really can't handle all of the mess on her own when a tiny albino wallaby came out behind some bushes, and everyone notice how cute it was. It did a "show" showing how the rubbish had bothered it and somehow everyone understood what it was trying to do. Later, all the lights were off, and the pond was quickly cleaned by a group of students and Suki decided that the wallaby should be her sidekick and that's how Sustainable Summer became Suki's sidekick.

Responsible Rami-Caring Clara

One day, Responsible Rami was walking down the street when she saw a little girl crying on the floor. When she got a closer look, she realised that the girl was bleeding on her knee. Then, she realised that she doesn't have any thing to help her. That's when she remembered that Clara was right behind her. "Clara! I need to get something to help this girl!" Rami shouts to Clara and Clara opened up to reveal some tissue to stop the blood, and some band-aid to put on later. When they're done, the girl started to smile and ran off. Rami felt she had done the right thing, and with Clara at her heels, she walked off home.
