Teamwork Tama sidekick = Trusting Tom

Hey! 'I feel like somebody is having a team disagreement' exclaims Tama okay let me check my globe to locate where the trouble is. I think I found it! We should start heading there in case it gets to out of control. The child's name is Mia, and she is fighting with her teammate about who gets to be the soccer goalie. 'There is nothing we can't handle' confidently says Tom and Tama. 'Hey Mia' both kindly says 'I heard you and your teammate have had a disagreement and I'm here to sort it out' says Tama I will have my sidekick trusting Tom have a chat with your other teammate to here both sides of the story. 'So, you want to be goalie, but your other teammate would like to be goalie as well?' Mia 'nods' okay great I will now talk to trusting Tom about their side of this situation and find a resolution to this. Okay everybody now that we are all together let's try and think about what we can do to resolve this! 'So, you both want to be goalies?' asks Tama 'yes we do' both shouts. 'Wait but there are two halves in a soccer match so somebody can play in the first half and the other can play in the second half' smartly responds Tom. Great but now to make this fair you should both do a rock paper scissor game and whoever wins gets to go in the first half but whoever loses will go in the second half. now that we are done we are free to go but remember kids 'teamwork makes the dreamwork' both yells.
